GOOD MAN GONE TO REWARD

W. D. Lowden Dies Very Suddenly of Heart Failure--The Entire County Mourns the Loss of a Noble Man.

William D. Lowden sat in his North Ada home Sunday morning cheerful and chatting with his family, apparently normal save for a pain in his chest, of which he has complained at times this summer. A recurrence of this pain caused Mrs. Lowden sufficient anxiety that she phoned over for the family physician who gave him a dose of mild medicine remarking jocularly that if that did not kill him soon he would give him another. Those words so lightly spoken, in mere pleasantness—it was with a shudder that they were recalled a few minutes later. For in less than twenty minutes Mr. Lowden was dead.

Turning sick, he went to the rear yard to vomit. Directly afterward there was a sound of a fall. His little child went out to the back porch, and its scream gave the alarm to the rest of the household. They found Mr. Lowden prostrate on the porch. His heart had stopped and he breathed but two or three more times. The fatal seizure is pronounced paralysis of the heart. No one, not even himself, had suspected he was affected with any serious malady.

The tragic death occurred at 11:05 a. m. Quickly the sad news spread throughout the city. It was a great shock to the entire community. The whole country mourns W. D. Lowden's untimely death. This is evidenced by the numerous friends from the surrounding country in to pay their last respects to the dead, by the

SPENT SUNDAY IN S. TOWN

Secretary Garfield and Party in the Choctaw - Chickasaw Country--Tishomingo Next Place

McAlester, I. T., Aug. 19—Secretary Garfield and Gov. Frantz arrived here Sunday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock from Muskogee, where they spent the night, and were guests of William Busby and the Chamber of Commerce. They were met at the train by Mr. Busby and President Fuller of the chamber of commerce and escorted to the Busby hotel. After luncheon they retired to rooms reserved for them and rested until 3 o'clock, when they were taken to the interurban line for a trip through the coal district.

The trip had been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce.

The entire afternoon was spent in a leisurely trip through the string of mining towns tributary to McAlester. Secretary Garfield showed deep interest in the development apparent, and displayed a marvelous appetite for information. President Fuller and Secretary Gulick of the Chamber of Commerce acted as guides, calling attention to the various enterprises as the car passed them. At Hartshorn the party left the car for a little time and walked about the business district, but the sun was too warm for much sightseeing.

FATAL TWENTY-SIX.

Here are the fatal figures that stare the republican machine, and particularly Gov. Frantz in the face; the fatal 26 sections that Frantz and other machine republicans demand should be stricken out of the constitution. You farmers, read carefully; read that, you laboring men; read that carefully, honest citizens in general, and tell us what there would be left to protect the people of the state if these 26 sections had been stricken out of the constitution. And remember that if Governor Frantz ever musters up sufficient courage to meet Haskell in open debate before the honest voters of this state he will have a chance to explain why he demanded these 26 sections should be stricken out of the constitution.

Hicks application for employment under the direction of the Anti-Saloon League was rejected, but he went on lecturing for state-wide prohibition and taking collections. Quite a number of protests came to the managers of the league against the employment of W. M. Harris to work among them was a letter from Mrs. R. P. Witt, of Mountainview, Oklahoma, June 27th, 1907, in which she said: "Mr. Hicks is surely out in the interest of the Anti-Saloon and he collected $9.35 here. You can get all the evidence you want as to his lecturing in the interest of the Anti-Saloon." In response to these protests the superintendent of the league said:

"We have given him (Hicks) no authority to represent the league nor to collect for it. If he gets money from any source, it is for his own pocket."

My Dear Sir and Friend:—

I beg to say that some days ago a Mr. W. M. Hicks representing himself as a Baptist preacher, called at our office, and in conference with Superintendent Thomson of our western Oklahoma district, and subsequently with me, tried to secure employment to advocate prohibition in the present campaign in Oklahoma under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League of the new state. Mr. Hicks said that he proposed to advocate prohibition anyway, but he much preferred to have the endorsement of the organization and the direct authority to work under its direction.

I was not favorably impressed with Mr. Hick's answers to some of my questions concerning previous work and methods and took the matter under advisement. He has not been so employed, and from information con-

Turned the Joke.

Uncle Dick Couch had just sold for city pound charges a bull and a cow, realizing $24 from the sale. In the city hall he laid the money on a desk while he answered a telephone call. When he had finished he found the money had disappeared, as had two other officials who had been in the room. Summoning Patrolman Geo. Culver he took in custody the other two officials, and in a jiffy had them in irons together and marching to the U. S. marshal's office. It didn't take much sweating to make the jokers disgorge the swag. Probably they won't bother Uncle Dick's bull money any more.

George Thompson, Chairman.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

ATHLETE IN CHARGE

George W. Woodruff, who has been named by President Roosevelt as acting secretary of the interior during the absence of Secretary Garfield, is one of the best-known authorities on outdoor games in the country, an all around athlete with a number of splendid records to his credit and developed the Pennsylvania university and Carlisle Indian football elevens.

His was the unusual record of having been for his entire four years member of the football eleven, the track and field teams and the varsity crew. He captained the crew of 1889.

After finishing his classical course at Yale, Mr. Woodruff went to the University of Pennsylvania to study law, and it was here that he made his reputation as one of the foremost football tacticians of his day.

When Mr. Woodruff left college a fighter was wanted in the forest service as law officer, and Mr. Woodruff got the appointment, becoming chief aid to Gifford Pinchot, the government forester. He did yeoman service in organizing the national forest reserve policy, and his industry and ability especially commended itself to the president, who soon discovered that the energetic, restless, planning, hustling attorney was a man of much his own mold.

The acting secretary of the interior is about the same age as Mr. Roosevelt and is not unlike the president in appearance. The shape of the faces, with the prominent teeth, the mustache and the expression of restless energy are not unlike.

Mr. Woodruff is one of five assistants to the attorney general, and is connected with the department of justice, though his assignment is to give advice to the department of the interior in matters where legal points are raised.

GOTHAM CITY CHAMBERLAIN

James J. Martin, the newly-appointed city chamberlain of New York, who is expected to join Mayor McClellan in his fight to oust Charles F. Murphy from the leadership of Tammany Hall, is one of the most powerful district leaders in the metropolis. He is pointed out as the "last of the old school of politicians," and he says he is proud of the distinction. The notion that the successful politician of the present day is the man who can shake hands, smile sweetly and promise without either fulfilling or offending is scorned by Mr. Martin.

"Politicians should stick more to the truth," says he. "I did it, and I know that it pays. Now and then it creates a little friction for a short time, but it disappears. You can never hold the support of a man to whom you lie, nor can you keep as your friend a man to whom you make promises that you do not keep. My policy always was to tell a man straight off whether I could do a thing or not. If I said I would, I did, and I got along all right."

Mr. Martin has been mentioned dozens of times for the leadership of Tammany Hall, has been the power in the Twenty-seventh district since 1882, has been chairman of the Tammany executive committee, president of the board of police commissioners, and during all his political career has been one of the "big" men in the organization. He was for years one of Richard Croker's counselors. When he resigned as an executive of the organization last September it was said by a political wag, "Martin has left, taking Tammany's brains with him."

Mr. Martin was born in Ireland and came to this country a babe in arms. At the age of 11 years he went to work as an office boy for a lawyer. In 1862, in company with several other boys, he ran away from home and enlisted in the Ninth New York volunteers. He served on the field for a year and then was made head of the clerical force with Gen. Dix. He continued in this office until the end of the war.

and he was chosen a second and third time by overwhelming majorities.

The Republican machine, which had controlled Toledo politics prior to the advent of Mayor Sam Jones, was in close touch with a wing of the Democratic party, and it was proposed by this combine to nominate Judge Wachenheimer for any office he chose to designate. But he rejected the offer and came out as the people's champion and was nominated for prosecuting attorney. The Democrats on the inside called him traitor, but their bitterness served only to nerve him to greater effort, and he won an overwhelming victory over the bosses.

Prosecuting Attorney Wachenheimer's first big accomplishment was to bring about the indictment of a score or more of bridge men engaged in "grafting" through an organized pool. But they were never brought to trial, owing to the fact that many counties had prior service on them.

He next began a crusade against the Ice Trust, which ended in the members of the trust paying fines and spending ten of last summer's hot days in the local bastile.

JAPAN'S FOREMOST DIPLOMAT

Viscount Hayashi, minister of foreign affairs in the Japanese cabinet, who recently went to Seoul, the Korean capital, in the interests of his country, which is hopeful that the emperor will abdicate the throne as requested by the premier, is a man much feared by those who would have the present government continue. After the emperor had refused to relinquish his power Japan lost no time in sending Hayashi to the scene and the news of his arrival spread dismay about the palace.

The circumstances leading up to the selection of Hayashi for the important office he now holds are interesting. Marquis Saionji, the prime minister, in reorganizing his cabinet, gave the portfolio of foreign affairs to Takaaki Kato, formerly ambassador to England. After holding the office only a few days Mr. Kato suddenly resigned, it is said, for reasons never made public. Thereupon Ambassador Hayashi, then at the court of St. James, received an unexpected call to return to Japan and he was placed in the cabinet.

Viscount Hayashi is only 57 years of age, having been born in 1850 in Sakura, a little town near Tokio. His father was a prominent scholar and physician and the son was given a careful education in law and languages. His ability was early recognized and while yet very young he was sent to England to familiarize himself with Anglo-Saxon civilization. In 1891 he was appointed vice minister and began his diplomatic life. As soon as the war with China was over he was sent as minister to China and his success at this post was brilliant. His chief achievement was the commercial treaty between China and Japan which was negotiated and signed by him in 1896. It was he, too, who signed the final revision of the British alliance treaty. He was created viscount for bringing about this treaty.

Admirers of Hayashi say he is a scrupulous and single-minded man. He is sagacious in his methods, sound in judgment, refined in his taste and loyal to his duty. In sending Viscount Hayashi to Korea during the present difficulty the Japanese people are confident their interests will be ably protected.

SINGING AS A FINE ART.

Correct Breathing at the Bottom of All Success, Says Melba.

I cannot too forcibly insist that the mere possession of a lovely voice is only the basis of vocal art, writes Mme. Melba in the Century Magazine. Nature occasionally startles one by the prodigality of her gifts, but no student has any right to expect to sing by inspiration any more than an athlete may expect to win a race because he is naturally fleet of foot.

Methods of breathing, "attack," and the use of the registers must all be perfectly understood by the successful singer, who should likewise be complete master of all details relating to the structure and use of those parts above the voice box and be convinced of the necessity of a perfectly controlled chest expansion in the production of tone.

For perfect singing correct breathing, strange as it may sound, is even more essential than a beautiful voice. No matter how exquisite the vocal organ may be, its beauty cannot be adequately demonstrated without proper breath control. Here is one of the old Italian secrets which many singers of to-day wholly lack because they are unwilling to give the necessary time for the full development of breathing power and control. Phrasing, tone, resonance, expression, all depend upon respiration, and in my opinion musi-

WAS WORTH TWO DOLLARS.

Traveler Reached Destination Long Before Uncivil Autoist.

A story that is just coming to light is that of an interesting experience which happened to a member of the governor's party which visited Jamestown at the opening of the exposition, says the Baltimore American. One day this member became detached from the party and could not find them again. He hunted about for awhile, and finally decided that they had returned to Norfolk and that he had better travel the same road. It was impossible to get a vehicle, so he started out to walk. After he had gotten down the road a little way he was overtaken by an automobile, and he hailed the driver with the request to give him a lift. The latter, not having inbred sufficient of southern courtesy, refused. So the pedestrian trudged along.

The next person to overtake him was a southern negro with a ramshackle buggy. For a dollar he joyfully agreed to carry the unfortunate one to Norfolk. But a little way up the road stood the "red devil" which had so unchivalrously passed the pedestrian, and under it was its owner sprawled flat on his back and tinkering.

"I'll give you two dollars if you get to Norfolk before the automobile," said the gentleman.

cal students, even when too young to be allowed the free use of the voice, should be thoroughly taught the principles of breathing.

Polyglot Parliament.

The new parliament elected for the first time under universal suffrage held its preliminary sitting the other day for the members to be sworn in. Eight different languages were used by the deputies in taking the oath. The members wore buttonholes to denote the parties to which they belonged. Thus the Christian socialists had white carnations, and the Social Democrats red carnations and the pan-Germans had cornflowers. The Social Democrats did not join in the cheers for the emperor, but showed their respect for his majesty by standing up when cheers were called. They will also send a deputation to the imperial palace to hear the speech from the throne on Wednesday.—Vienna Dispatch in London Express.

Unflattering Impressions.

Prof. Chamberlain, the great English authority upon all things Japanese, says: "From hints dropped by several educated, and from the still more interesting, because frankly naive, remarks made by Japanese servants whom I have taken with me to Europe at different times, I found that the traveled Japanese consider our three most prominent characteristics to be dirt, laziness and superstition."

"All right, sah, I'll do it if dis har mule can git that."

And to make the story short, the darky earned the $2—for all the gentleman knows the unkind automobilist may be lying on his back in the Norfolk road yet—and the old story of the tortoise and the hare received a modern illustration.

Year's Change.

"I tell you, mum," remarked Sandy Pikes, as he dipped up the strawberries and cream, "when you are leading a hobo life you have to keep up with the times."

"Is that so, my poor man?" said the sympathetic housewife.

"Yes, indeed, mum. Why, dis time last year I used to say I came from San Francisco and people used to give me handouts 'cause dey thought I was an earthquake sufferer. Now, if I should forget myself and say I came from San Francisco dey would be liable to hand me over to de police for being an escaped grafter."

The Simple Truth.

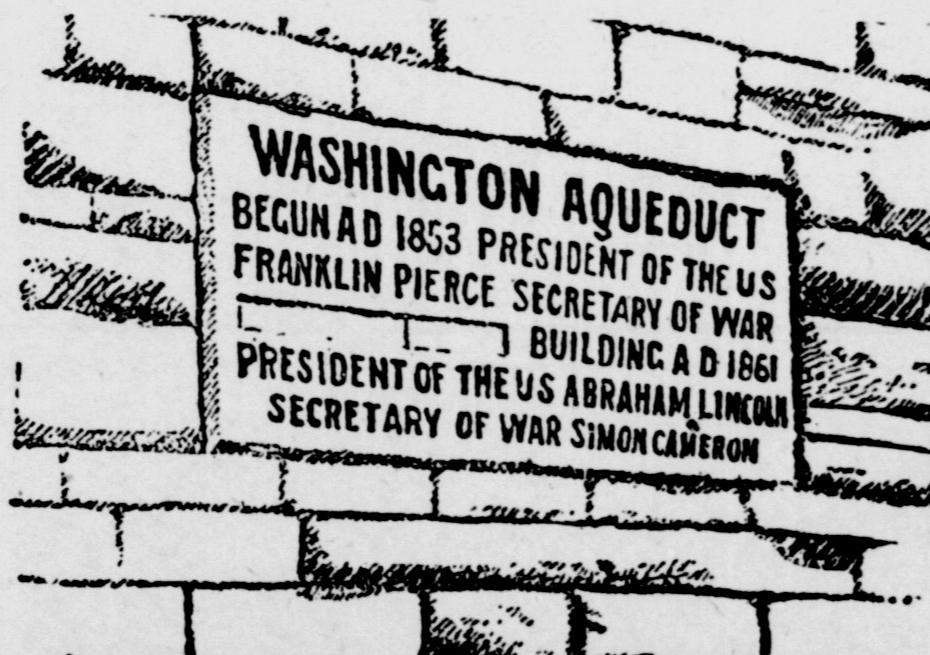

Tess—Miss Woodley tells me her grandfather was a real estate conveyancer.

Jess—Ha! ha!

Tess—Why do you laugh? Isn't it true?

Jess—Oh, yes, it's true. You see, the dump cart her grandfather drove was a conveyance for transporting real estate.

HISTORIC TABLET AT CABIN JOHN.

A movement is on foot to restore to the tablet on Cabin John Bridge near Washington the name of Jefferson Davis, which was cut out of the stone some time during the Civil War. Mr. Davis was Secretary of War at the time the construction of the great bridge was begun, and he was very much of the confederate that succeeded the outbreak of war, some one cut the name of the confederate out of the stone, leaving only a blank space.

GRAYBEARD WANTS TO KNOW

Why Women Refuse to Deny Rumors of Engagements.

NURSES BY THE HOUR.

New Idea in New York That Is Said to Work Well.

"Why do women never deny an engagement of marriage?" asked the gray headed man. "In these days of world-wide social gossip every day brings the report of some impossible engagement which somebody has to deny, and always the first denial comes from the male half of the fictitious partnership. How account for this alacrity on the part of man to disclaim all intentions of a matrimonial venture? Does it indicate a spirit of gallantry which prompts him to relieve the lady, so far as possible, of all trouble and notoriety, or does it indicate a spirit of misanthropy that prompts him to hasten to proclaim himself impervious to female blandishments?"

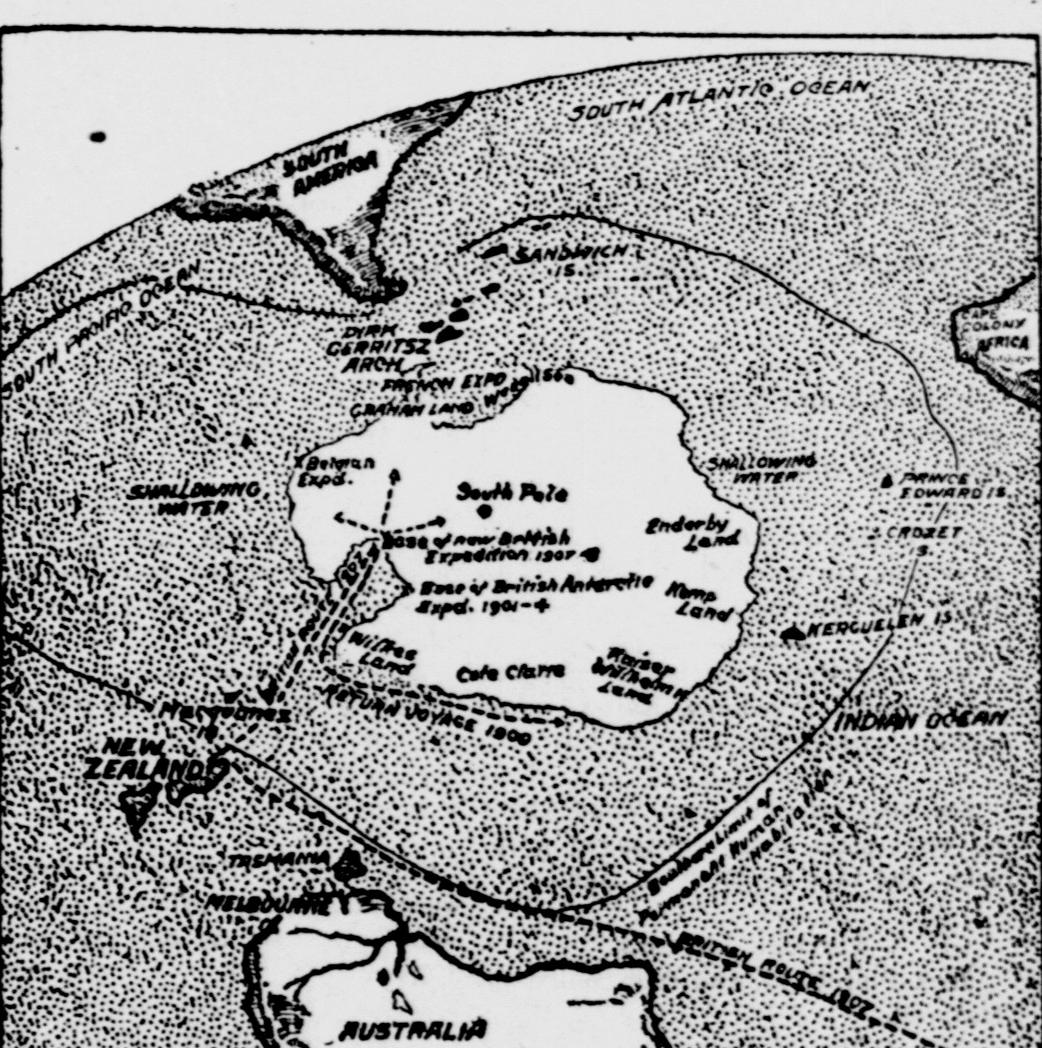

"In many instances the man in the case is unworthy any woman's serious consideration; it is clearly to her credit to deny any shade of entanglement with him, yet no matter how flagrant his transgressions the woman moves placidly along allowing everybody to believe that she really intends to marry the wretch. Is she thus asquiescent through vanity, I wonder, and the desire to have the world think that she has been "asked" or through the philosophical reflection that time will show the gossips their mistake?"

Some of the up-to-date trained nurses of New York have adopted a new idea. As a general thing, all trained nurses charge for their services by the week. They are supposed to remain in the home of their patient and be on duty practically every hour during their stay. This is exhausting work, and frequently a nurse is in a state of collapse after a week or two or constant attention to a nervous patient.

Well-to-do families can afford to pay for the nurse's services by the week, but in a poorer family a trained nurse is a luxury that makes a deep hole in the bread-winner's wages. In order to relieve themselves of the strain on their vitality and to put their services within the reach of limited pocketbooks, the modern young nurse now charges by the hour. In some cases a patient needs the attention of a nurse only an hour or two daily. For such attention one dollar an hour is charged. Where constant service is wanted the regular weekly charge is made.

For the Invalid.

A neat little booklet for an invalid can be made by saving witty clippings and pasting in a small scrap book. Often when one is not able to read lengthy articles something bright and witty will help brighten the day. It should only be loaned and passed along where it would probably be the most appreciated. Little pieces can be pasted on cards and are much more easily held by persons lying in bed. Bright pictures, comic and otherwise, are nice for children and afford amusement to the impatient little sufferers who must remain in bed.

Dissatisfaction.

"Any dissatisfaction on the canal?" wired the government.

"Yes," was the prompt answer; "one of the dredger crew struck a game Saturday night, and they rung a cold deck on him."

within the antarctic circle. The new collection has been investigated, and Eagle Clarke reports that it adds to the list four species—the arctic tern, the blue petrel, the short-winged petrel, and Hutton's sooty albatross. While the petrels and their relatives are doubtless drawn so far south by the extraordinary abundance of the food near the ice barrier, it is thought to be most remarkable that the arctic tern, after breeding in the north, should make the long journey to the opposite pole.

As to Memorial Resolutions.
Memorial resolutions, all superlatively laudatory, fall equally upon the just and the unjust, and signify nothing. Some stereotyped forms of memorial resolutions, the names being changed to fit the occasion, are used hundreds of times and applied indiscriminately to persons as various in character as a judge and a prize-fighter, a soldier and a clergyman. They are like the undertaker's crapes on the door, which serves a multitude of the dead.

GOOD MAN GONE TO REWARD

W. D. Lowden Dies Very Suddenly of Heart Failure--The Entire County Mourns the Loss of a Noble Man.

William D Lowden sat in his North Ada home Sunday morning cheerful and chatting with his family apparently normal save for a pain in his chest of which he has complained at times this summer. A recurrence of this pain caused Mrs Lowden sufficient anxiety that she phoned over for the family physician who gave him a dose of mild medicine remarking jocularly that if that did not kill him soon he would give him another. Those words so lightly spoken in mere jest—it was with a shudder that they were recited a few minutes later. For in less than twenty minutes Mr Lowden was dead.

Turning sick he went to the rear yard to vomit. Directly afterward there was a sound of a fall! His little child went out to the back porch and its scream gave the alarm to the rest of the household. They found Mr Lowden prostrate on the porch. His heart had stopped and he breathed but two or three more times. The fatal seizure is pronounced paroxysm of the heart. No one even himself had suspected he was affected with any serious malady.

The tragic death occurred at 11 o'clock. Quickly the sad news spread throughout the city. It was a great shock to the entire community. The whole country mourns W. D. Lowden's untimely death. This is evidenced by the numerous friends from the surrounding country in to pay their last respects to the dead by the general closing up of business houses for the funeral this afternoon at three by the vast cortege that followed.

THE TRUTH ABOUT HICKS

Developments About anti Preacher Hired for the Benefit of Oklahoma Voters.

Owing to the distorted reports that have gone out over the country in regard to the result of the debate between W. M. Hicks and J. H. Davis and in order that the public might know who Hicks is the campaign committee thought best to publish the following

A. M. Croxton
Secretary and Treasurer Campaign Committee

One J. W. (W. M.) Hicks had a notice printed in the local papers that he would speak in Ada on August 14th upon the subject of Local Option vs State-Wide Prohibition and challenged the advocates of state-wide prohibition to meet him in joint debate at the time this challenge was accepted by the county campaign committee they personally knew nothing of the character and previous record of J. W. (W. M.) Hicks. Judge J. H. Davis was invited to meet Hicks and in this debate facts were brought out which ought to have a wide circulation over the two Territories especially as Hicks is working in the employment and under the direction of I. B. Levy president of the Citizens League of Guthrie Okla. in a campaign to defeat prohibition at the coming election and is representing himself as a Baptist minister. These facts are not given to the public with any desire of persons cutting Mr. Hicks but in order that the people in the new state may know the character and record of the man who is prostituting a great Baptist denomination and the Christian religion in an effort to acquire some of the slush funds appropriated and set apart for the purpose of perpetuating the liquor trust and traffic in Oklahoma.

The announcement of his subject Local Option vs State-wide Prohibition started this line of reflection. Why should a minister of the gospel turn aside from his high calling of preaching the gospel to give his time and efforts to defeat prohibition at the coming election? Why should he try to inject the local option issue into this campaign when there is no such proposition submitted to the voters of the proposed new state? Mr. Hicks spent much of his time in reading the same old discredited stale statistics about the failure of prohibition to prohibit which the breweries and saloons have been banding out for the past quarter of a century and which Mr. I. B. Levy president of the so-called citizen's league is now industriously circulating all over the territory.

After putting himself on record and urging that he was in this campaign to fight the breweries, saloons and the sale of liquor anywhere and in any form, Hicks then turned to the Bible garbled misquoted perverted and twisted the language of the holy scriptures to make it justify the sale of liquor, drunkenness and unrestricted use of strong drink as the liberty of a free people. And advocated the licensed saloon straight out.

He impressed the audience as a man utterly devoid of conscience, without the fear of God or reverence for His word or respect for decency or honor.

There was much pleasure manifested when this performance was ended by the announcement that his time was up and that Judge J. H. Davis would next speak. After Mr. Davis had severely arraigned the liquor traffic and painted in their most lurid colors the misery woe and pestilential curses which are caused by the license

Secretary Garfield and Party in the Choctaw - Chickasaw Country--
Tishomingo Next Place

McAlester 1 T Aug 19—Secretary Garfield and Gov. Frantz arrived here Sunday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock from Muskogee where they spent the night and were guests of William Busby and the Chamber of Commerce. They were met at the train by Mr. Busby and President Fuller of the chamber of commerce and escorted to the Busby hotel. After luncheon they retired to rooms reserved for them and rested until 3 o'clock, when they were taken to the interurban line for a trip through the coal district.

The trip had been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce.

The entire afternoon was spent in a leisurely trip through the string of mining towns tributary to McAlester. Secretary Garfield showed deep interest in the development apparent and displayed a marvelous appetite for information. President Fuller and Secretary Gulick of the Chamber of Commerce acted as guides, calling attention to the various enterprises as the car passed them. At Hartshorn the party left the car for a little time and walked about the business district but the sun was too warm for much sightseeing.

Returning to the hotel about 6 o'clock the guests dressed for a dinner rendered them by the Chamber of Commerce. The party sat down at 8:30. Covers were laid for 20.

It being Sunday the occasion was largely informal, and there was no speechmaking.

This morning the secretary and his party leave for Tishomingo, the capital of the Chickasaw Nation, where it has been arranged that Mr. Garfield may meet as many of the Chickasaw fullbloods as possible. Tonight they go for a short time to Ardmore, and at 9 o'clock they take a special train on the Rock Island from Tishomingo to Wister where they connect with the Frisco for Tulsa. Gov.

Frantz will return here Tuesday to address the United Confederate Veterans of Oklahoma and Indian Territory whose annual reunion begins here that day. Secretary Garfield will spend part of Tuesday at Tulsa, the capital of the Choctaw Nation where the Choctaw full-bloods have been invited to meet him. Gov. Frantz is scheduled for an address at Willbenton Wednesday.

FATAL EIGHTY-SIX.

Here are the fatal figures that stare the republican machine and particularly Gov. Frantz in the face: the fatal 26 sections that Frantz and other machine republicans demand should be stricken out of the constitution.

You need carefully read that you sided over by the speaker which the farmers read carefully honest citizens in general and tell us what there would be left to protect the people of the state if these 26 sections had been stricken out of the constitution.

And remember that it Governor Frantz ever musters up sufficient courage to meet Haskell in open debate before the honest voters of this state he will have a chance to explain why he demanded these 26 sections should be stricken out of the constitution.

FRANTZ' AFFRONT TO LABOR.

Gov. Frantz and John M. Threadgill insist on Having Ballots Printed by Non-Union Shop.

The republican attitude toward union labor is fully illustrated by the disposition made of the state printing by Governor Frantz and John M. Threadgill who as republican members of the state election board awarded over the protest of Judge C. Galbraith the democratic member the contract for furnishing the election supplies for the coming election to the Guthrie State Capital.

Judge Galbraith wanted the work given to union offices and asked to have it divided between democratic and republican papers but the republican members said No. Then Mr. Galbraith asked that it be submitted to competitive bids but Governor Frantz declared that it must go to the State Capital and sought to justify his favoritism because the constitutional convention printing had been given to the Guthrie Leader.

The constitutional convention, composed largely of union men and those in sympathy with organized labor, had should bear the union label and as the State Capital is a non-union shop and it was not eligible to bid on the convention printing and the contract was finally let to the Leader, a union office.

The State Federation of Labor in session in Oklahoma City the past week took action on the affront offered to the union by Governor Frantz and Mr. Threadgill and besides endorsing the constitution this representative body passed a $100,000.00 of organizing labor to the State Capitol in very vigorous language and placed it in the hands of Democratic Campaign committee.

Turned the Joke.

Uncle Dick Couch had just sold for city pound charges a bull and a cow, realizing $24 from the sale. In the city hall he laid the money on a desk while he answered a telephone call. When he had finished he found the money had disappeared, as had two other officials who had been in the room. Summoning Patrolman Geo Culver he took in custody the other two officials, and in a jiffy had them in irons together and marching to the U S marshal's office. It didn't take much sweating to make the jokers digerage the swag. Probably they won't bother Uncle Dick's bull money any more.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

ATHLETE IN CHARGE

George W. Woodruff, who has been named by President Roosevelt as acting secretary of the interior during the absence of Secretary Garfield, is one of the best-known authorities on outdoor games in the country, an all around athlete with a number of splendid records to his credit and developed the Pennsylvania university and Carnegie Indian football teams.

He was the unusual record of having been for his entire four years a member of the football eleven, the track and field teams and the varsity crew. He captained the crew of 1889.

After finishing his classical course at Yale, Mr. Woodruff went to the University of Pennsylvania to study law, and it was here that he made his reputation as one of the foremost football tacticians of his day.

When Mr. Woodruff left college a fighter was wanted in the forest service as law officer, and Mr. Woodruff got the appointment, becoming chief aid to Gifford Pinchot, the government forester. He did yeoman service in organizing the national forest reserve policy, and his industry and ability especially commanded itself to the president, who soon discovered that the energetic, restless planning, hustling attorney was a man of much his own gold.

The acting secretary of the interior is about the same age as Mr. Roosevelt and is not unlike the president in appearance. The shape of the faces, with the prominent teeth, the mustache and the expression of restless energy are not unlike.

Mr. Woodruff is one of five assistants to the attorney general, and is connected with the department of justice, though his assignment is to give advice to the department of the interior in matters where legal points are raised.

GOTHAM CITY CHAMBERLAIN

James J. Martin, the newly-appointed city chamberlain of New York, who is expected to join Mayor McClellan in his fight to oust Charles F. Murphy from the leadership of Tammany Hall, is one of the most powerful district leaders in the metropolis. He is pointed out as the "last of the old school of politicians," and he says he is proud of the distinction. The notion that the successful politician of the present day is the man who can shake hands, smile sweetly and promise without either fulfilling or offending is scorned by Mr. Martin.

"Politicians should stick more to the truth," says he. "I did it, and I know that it pays. Now and then it creates a little friction for a short time, but it disappears. You can never hold the man to whom you lie, nor can you keep as your friend a man to whom you make promises that you do not keep. My policy always was to tell a man straight off whether I could do a thing or not. If I said I would, I did, and I got along all right."

Mr. Martin has been mentioned dozens of times for the leadership of Tammany Hall, has been the power in the Twenty-seventh district since 1882, has been chairman of the Tammany executive committee, president of the board of police commissioners, and during all his political career has been one of the "big" men in the organization. He was for years one of Richard Croker's counselors. When he resigned as an executive of the organization last September it was said by a political wag, "Martin has left, taking Tammany's brains with him."

Mr. Martin was born in Ireland and came to this country a babe in arms. At the age of 11 years he went to work as an office boy for a lawyer. In 1862, in company with several other boys, he ran away from home and enlisted in the Ninth New York volunteers. He served on the field for a year and then was made head of the clerical force with Gen. Dix. He continued in this office until the end of the war.

SENT MAGNATES TO JAIL

Lyman Wheeler Wachenheimer, the prosecuting attorney through whose efforts 23 Toledo lumbermen and brick men have been sentenced to jail for violation of the anti-trust laws, is 45 years old and a native of Toledo. He has always been a Democrat. Nine years ago he was nominated for police judge. His opponent was Scott Kelly, who had been nominated for a third term. Kelly was very popular. Toledo was almost hopelessly Republican; nevertheless Mr. Wachenheimer was elected. Before his term was half completed he was the most popular official in the city. He was a terror to law breakers, and the result was a perceptible diminution of crime in Toledo. So well liked was Judge Wachenheimer that it was difficult to get a Republican to run against him, and he was chosen a second and third time by overwhelming majorities.

The Republican machine, which had controlled Toledo politics prior to the advent of Mayor Sam Jones, was in close touch with a wing of the Democratic party, and it was proposed by this combine to nominate Judge Wachenheimer for any office he chose to designate. But he rejected the offer and came out as the people's champion and was nominated for prosecuting attorney. The Democrats on the inside called him traitor, but their bitterness served only to nerve him to greater effort, and he won an overwhelming victory over the bosses.

Prosecuting Attorney Wachenheimer's first big accomplishment was to bring about the indictment of a score or more of bridge men engaged in "grafting" through an organized pool. But they were never brought to trial, owing to the fact that many counties had prior service on them.

He next began a crusade against the Ice Trust, which ended in the members of the trust paying fines and spending ten of last summer's hot days in the local bastile.

JAPAN'S FOREMOST DIPLOMAT

Viscount Hayashi, minister of foreign affairs in the Japanese cabinet, who recently went to Seoul, the Korean capital, in the interests of his country, which is hopeful that the emperor will abdicate the throne as requested by the premier, is man most feared by those who would have the present government continue. After the emperor had refused to relinquish his power Japan lost no time in sending Hayashi to the scene and the news of his arrival spread dismay about the palace.

The circumstances leading up to the selection of Hayashi for the important office he now holds are interesting. Marquis Saito, the prime minister, in reorganizing his cabinet, gave the portfolio of foreign affairs to Takaaki Kato, formerly minister to England. After holding the office only a few days Mr. Kato suddenly resigned, it is said, for reasons never made public. Thereupon Ambassador Hayashi, then at the court of St. James, received an unexpected call to return to Japan and he was placed in the cabinet.

Viscount Hayashi is only 57 years of age, having been born in 1850 in Sakura, a little town near Tokio. His father was a prominent scholar and physician and the son was given a careful education in law and languages. His ability was early recognized and while yet very young he was sent to England to familiarize himself with Anglo-Saxon civilization. In 1891 he was appointed vice minister and began his diplomatic life. As soon as the war with China was over he was sent as minister to China and his success at this post was brilliant. His chief achievement was the commercial treaty between China and Japan which was negotiated and signed by him in 1896. It was he, too, who signed the final revision of the British-alliance treaty. He was created viscount for bringing about this treaty.

Admirers of Hayashi say he is a scrupulous and single-minded man. He is sagacious in his methods, sound in judgment, refined in his taste and loyal to his duty. In sending Viscount Hayashi to Korea during the present difficulty the Japanese people are confident their interests will be ably protected.

SINGING AS A FINE ART.

Correct Breathing at the Bottom of All Success, Baya Melba.

I cannot too forcibly insist that the mere possession of a lovely voice is only the basis of vocal art, writes Mme. Melba in the Century Magazine. Nature occasionally startles one by the prodigality of her gifts, but no student has any right to expect to sing by inspiration any more than an athlete may expect to win a race because he is naturally fleet of foot.

Methods of breathing, "attack," and the use of the registers must all be perfectly understood by the successful singer, who should likewise be complete master of all details relating to the structure and use of those parts above the voice box and be convinced of the necessity of a perfectly controlled chest expansion in the production of tone.

For perfect singing correct breathing, strange as it may sound, is even more essential than a beautiful voice. No matter how exquisite the vocal organ may be, its beauty cannot be adequately demonstrated without proper breath control. Here is one of the old Italian secrets which many singers of to-day wholly lack because they are unwilling to give the necessary time for the full development of breathing power and control. Phrasing, tone, resonance, expression, all depend upon respiration, and in my opinion must-

WAS WORTH TWO DOLLARS.

Traveler Reached Destination Long Before Uncivil Autoist.

A story that is just coming to light is that of an interesting experience which happened to a member of the governor's party which visited Jamestown at the opening of the exposition, says the Baltimore American. One day this member became detached from the party and could not find them again. He hunted about for awhile, and finally decided that they had returned to Norfolk and that he had better travel the same road. It was impossible to get a vehicle, so he started out to walk. After he had gotten down the road a little the way he was overtaken by an automobile, and he hailed the driver with the request to give him a lift. The latter, not having imbued sufficient of southern courtesy, refused. So the pedestrian trudged along.

The next person to overtake him was a southerner negro with a ramshackle "buggy." For a dollar he joyfully agreed to carry the unfortunate one to Norfolk. But a little way up the road stood the "red devil" which had so unchivalrously passed the pedestrian, and under it was its owner sprawled flat on his back and tinkering.

"I'll give you two dollars if you get to Norfolk before the automobile," said the gentleman.

GRAND EXALTED RULER OF ELKS.

John K. Tener of Charleroi, Pa., last year treasurer of the Grand Lodge, Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, was elected grand exalted ruler of the organization at its recent session at Philadelphia.

cal students, even when too young to be allowed the free use of the voice, should be thoroughly taught the principles of breathing.

Polyglot Parliament.

The new parliament elected for the first time under universal suffrage held its preliminary sitting the other day for the members to be sworn in. Eight different languages were used by the deputies in taking the oath. The members wore buttonholes to denote the parties to which they belonged. Thus the Christian socialists had white carnations, and the Social Democrats red carnations and the Germans had cornflowers. The Social Democrats did not join in the cheers for the emperor, but showed their respect for his majesty by standing up when cheers were called. They will also send a deputation to the imperial palace to hear the speech from the throne on Wednesday.—Vienna Dispatch in London Express.

Unflattering Impressions.

Prof. Chamberlain, the great English authority upon all things Japanese, says: "From hints dropped by several educated, and from the still more interesting, because frankly naive, remarks made by Japanese servants whom I have taken with me to Europe at different times, I found that the traveled Japanese consider our three most prominent characteristics to be dirt, laziness and superstition."

"All right, sah, I'll do it if dis har mule eat git tha."

And to make the story short, the darky earned the $2—for all the gentleman knows the unkind automobilist may be lying on his back in the Norfolk road yet—and the old story of the tortoise and the hare received a modern illustration.

Year's Change.

"I tell you, num," remarked Sandy Pikes, as he dipped up the strawberries and cream, "when you are leading de hobie life you have to keep up with the times."

"Is that so, my poor man?" said the sympathetic housewife.

"Yes, indeed, num. Why, dis time last year I used to say I came from San Francisco and people used to give me handouts 'cause dey thought I was an earthquake sufferer. Now, if I should forget myself and say I came from San Francisco dey would be liable to hand me over to de police for being an escaped grafter."

The Simple Truth.

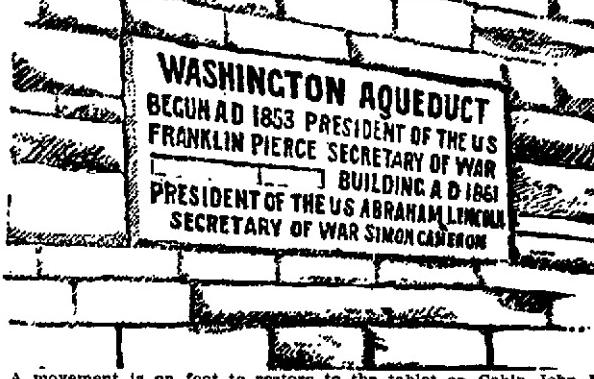

Tess—Miss Woodley tells me her grandfather was a real estate conveyancer.

Jess—Ha! ha!

Tess—Why do you laugh? Isn't it true?

Jess—Oh, yes, it's true. You see, the dump cart her grandfather drove was a conveyance for transporting real estate.

HISTORIC TABLET AT CABIN JOHN.

A movement is on foot to restore to the tablet on Cabin John Bridge near Washington the name of Jefferson Davis, which was cut out of the stone some time during the Civil War. Mr. Davis was Secretary of War at the time the construction of the great bridge was begun, and he was very much interested in the progress that succeeded the outbreak of war, some one out the name of the confederate out of the stone, leaving only a blank space.

GRAYBEARD WANTS TO KNOW

Why Women Refuse to Deny Rumors of Engagements.

"Why do women never deny an engagement of marriage?" asked the gray headed man. "In these days of world-wide social gossip every day brings the report of some impossible engagement which somebody has to deny, and always the first denial comes from the male half of the fictitious partnership. How account for this mimicry on the part of man to disclaim all intentions of a matrimonial venture? Does it indicate a spirit of gallantry which prompts him to relieve the lady, so far as possible, of all trouble and notoriety, or does it indicate a spirit of philanthropy that prompts him to hasten to proclaim himself impervious to female blandishments? Personally, I incline to the latter view. But even that does not explain the backwardness of women in denying these undesirable engagements."

"In many instances the man in the case is unworthy any woman's serious consideration; it is clearly to her credit to deny any shade of entanglement with him, yet no matter how flagrant his transgressions the woman moves placidly along allowing everybody to believe that she really intends to marry the wretch. Is she thus asquiescent through vanity, I

NURSES BY THE HOUR.

New Idea in New York That is Said to Work Well.

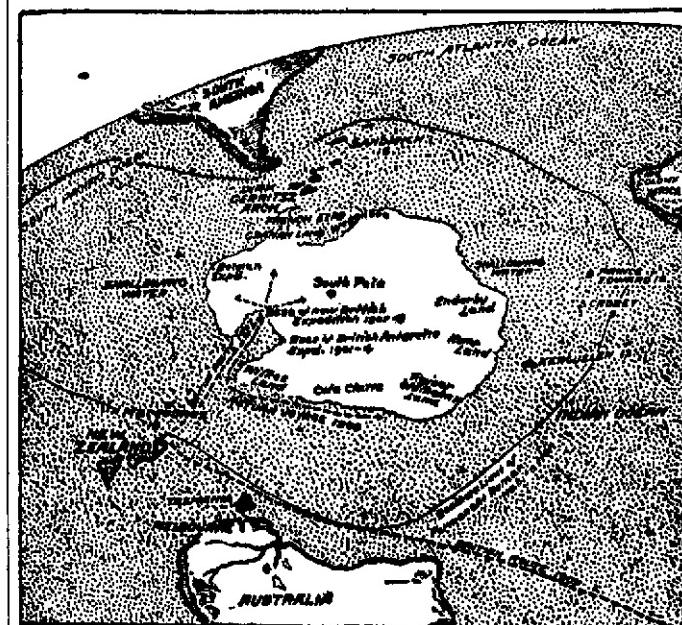

Some of the up-to-date trained nurses of New York have adopted a new idea. As a general thing, all trained nurses charge for their services by the week. They are supposed to remain in the home of their patient and be on duty practically every hour during their stay. This is exhausting work, and frequently a nurse is in a state of collapse after a week or two of constant attention to a nervous patient.

Well-to-do families can afford to pay for the nurse's services by the week, but in a poorer family a trained nurse is a luxury that makes a deep hole in the bread-winner's wages. In order to relieve themselves of the strain on their vitality and to put their services within the reach of limited pocketbooks, the modern young nurse now charges by the hour. In some cases a patient needs one hour or two daily. For such attention one dollar an hour is charged. Where constant service is wanted the regular weekly charge is made.

Antarctic Birds.

Before the recent Scott expedition nine species of birds had been found wonder, and the desire to have the world think that she has been 'asked,' or through the philosophical reflection that time will show the gossips their mistake?"

For the Invalid.

A neat little booklet for an invalid can be made by saving witty clippings and pasting in a small scrap book. Often when one is not able to read lengthy articles something bright and witty will help brighten the day. It should only be loaned and passed along where it would probably be the most appreciated. Little pieces can be pasted on cards and are much more easily held by persons lying in bed. Bright pictures, comic and otherwise, are nice for children and afford amusement to the impatient little sufferers who must remain in bed.

Dissatisfaction.

"Any dissatisfaction on the canal?" wired the government.

"Yes," was the prompt answer: "one of the dredger crew struck a game Saturday night, and they rung in a cold deck on him."

within the antarctic circle. The new collection has been investigated, and Eagle Clarke reports that it adds to the list four species—the arctic tern, the blue petrel, the short-winged albatross. While the petrels and their relatives are doubtless drawn so far south by the extraordinary abundance of the food near the ice barrier, it is thought to be most remarkable that the arctic tern, after breeding in the north, should make the long journey to the opposite pole.

As to Memorial Resolutions.

Memorial resolutions, all superlatively laudatory, fall equally upon the just and the unjust, and signify nothing. Some stereotyped forms of memorial resolutions, the names being changed to fit the occasion, are used indiscriminately to persons as various in character as a judge and a prize-fighter, a soldier and a clergyman. They are like the undertaker's traps on the door, which serves a multitude of the dead.

GOOD MAN GONE TO REWARD

W. D. Lowden Dies Very Suddenly of Heart Failure--The Entire County Mourns the Loss of a Noble Man.

William D Lowden sat in his North Ada home Sunday morning cheerful and chatting with his family apparently normal save for a pain in his chest of which he has complained at times this summer. A recurrence of this pain caused Mrs Lowden sufficient anxiety that she phoned over for the family physician who gave him a dose of mild medicine remarking familiarly that if that did not kill him soon he would give him another. Those words so lightly spoken in mere pleasure—it was with a shudder that they were recalled a few minutes later. For in less than twenty minutes Mr Lowden was dead.

Turning sick he went to the rear yard to vomit. Directly afterward there was a sound of a fall. His little child went out to the back porch and its scream gave the alarm to the rest of the household. They found Mr Lowden prostrate on the porch. His heart had stopped and he breathed but two or three more times. The fatal seizure is pronounced paralysis of the heart. No one not even those who look after men's souls on Saturday could have suspected he was affected with any serious malady.

The tragic death occurred at 11 o'clock. Quickly the sad news spread throughout the city. It was a great shock to the entire community. The whole country mourns W. D. Lowden's untimely death. This is evidenced by the numerous friends from the surrounding country in to pay their last respects to the dead by the general closing up of business houses for the funeral this afternoon at three by the vast cortege that followed

Developments About anti Preacher Hired for the Benefit of Oklahoma Voters.

Owing to the distorted reports that have gone out over the country in regard to the result of the debate between W. M. Hicks and J. H. Davis and in order that the public might know who Hicks is the campaign committee thought best to publish the following

A. M. Croxton
Secretary and Treasurer Campaign Committee

One J. W. (W. M.) Hicks had a notice printed in the local papers that he would speak in Ada on August 14th upon the subject of Local Option vs State-Wide Prohibition and challenged the advocates of state-wide prohibition to meet him in joint debate at the time this challenge was accepted by the county campaign committee—they personally knew nothing of the character and previous record of J. W. (W. M.) Hicks. Judge J. H. Davis was invited to meet Hicks and in this debate facts were brought out which ought to have a wide circulation over the two Territories especially as Hicks is working in the employment and under the direction of I. B. Levy president of the Citizen's League of Guthrie Okla in a campaign to defeat prohibition at the coming election and is representing himself as a Baptist minister. These facts are not given to the public with any desire of persecuting Mr. Hicks but in order that the people in the new state may know the character and record of the man who is proselytizing a great Baptist denomination and the Christian religion.

In an effort to acquire some of the slush funds appropriated and set apart for the purpose of perpetuating the liquor trust and traffic in Oklahoma the announcement of his subject Local Option vs State-wide Prohibition started this line of reflection. Why should a minister of the gospel turn aside from his high calling of preaching the gospel to give his time and efforts to defeat prohibition at the coming election? Why should he try to inject the local option issue into this campaign when there is no such proposition submitted to the voters of the proposed new state? Mr. Hicks spent much of his time in reading the same old discredited stale statistics about the failure of prohibition to prohibit which the breweries and saloons have been banding out for the past quarter of a century and which Mr. I. B. Levy president of the so-called citizen's league is now industriously circulating all over the territory.

After putting himself on record and urging that he was in this campaign to fight the breweries, saloons and the sale of liquor anywhere and in any form Hicks then turned to the Bible garbled misquoted perverted and wrested the language of the holy scriptures to make it justify the sale of liquor, drunkenness and unrestricted use of strong drink as the liberty of a free people. And advocated the licensed saloon straight out.

He impressed the audience as a man utterly devoid of conscience, without the fear of God or reverence for His holiest word or respect for decency or honor.

There was much pleasure manifested when this performance was ended

by the announcement that his time was up and that Judge J. H. Davis would next speak. After Mr. Davis had severely arraigned the liquor traffic and painted in their most lurid colors the misery woe and pestilential curse which are caused by the license

SPENT SUNDAY IN S. TOWN

Secretary Garfield and Party in the Choctaw-Chickasaw Country-Tishomingo Next Place

McAlester, Aug. 19.—Secretary Garfield and Gov. Frantz arrived here Sunday afternoon at 1:15 o'clock from Muskogee where they spent the night and were guests of William Bushy and the Chamber of Commerce. They were met at the train by Mr. Bushy and President Fuller of the chamber of commerce and escorted to the Bushy hotel. After luncheon they retired to rooms reserved for them and rested until 3 o'clock, when they were taken to the interurban line for a trip through the coal district.

The trip had been arranged by the Chamber of Commerce.

The entire afternoon was spent in a leisurely trip through the string of mining towns tributary to McAlester. Secretary Garfield showed deep interest in the development apparent and displayed a marvelous appetite for information. President Fuller and Secretary Gulick of the Chamber of Commerce acted as guides, calling attention to the various enterprises as the car passed them. At Hartshorn the party left the car for a little time and walked about the business district but the sun was too warm for much sightseeing.

FATAL EVENT-SIX.

Here are the fatal figures that stare the republican machine and particularly Gov. Frantz in the face—the fatal 26 sections that Frantz and other machine republicans demand should be stricken out of the constitution.

You farmers read carefully; read that you laboring men read that carefully honest citizens in general and tell us what there would be left to protect the people of the state if these 26 sections had been stricken out of the constitution.

And remember that if Governor Frantz ever muster up sufficient courage to meet Haskell in open debate before the honest voters of this state he will have a chance to explain why he demanded these 26 sections should be stricken out of the constitution.

The above 21 demands were filed prior to July 10, the day the convention reconvened. On July 12th, the Guthrie State Capital, included some of the above, but added thereto the following demands:

The campaign opens good and proper; there is going to be a hot time in Oklahoma.

Quite a number of protests came to the managers of the league against the employment of W. M. Harris to work among them was a letter from Mrs. R. P. You can get all the evidence you want as to his lecturing in the interest of the Anti-Saloon." In response to these protests the superintendent of the league said

"We have given him (Hicks) no authority to represent the league nor to collect for it. If he gets money from any source it is for his own pocket."

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT

ATHLETE IN CHARGE

George W. Woodruff, who has been named by President Roosevelt as acting secretary of the interior during the absence of Secretary Garfield, is one of the best-known authorities on outdoor games in the country, an all around athlete with a number of splendid records to his credit and developed the Pennsylvania university and Carlisle Indian football elevens.

He was the unusual record of having been for his entire four years a member of the football eleven, the track and field teams and the varsity crew. He captained the crew of 1889.

After finishing his classical course at Yale, Mr. Woodruff went to the University of Pennsylvania to study law, and it was here that he made his reputation as one of the foremost football athletes of his day.

When Mr. Woodruff left college a fighter was wanted in the forest service as law officer, and Mr. Woodruff got the appointment, becoming chief aid to Gifford Pinchot, the government forester. He did yeoman service in organizing the national forest reserve policy, and his industry and ability especially commended itself to the president, who soon discovered that the energetic, restless, planning, hustling attorney was a man of much his own mind.

The acting secretary of the interior is about the same age as Mr. Roosevelt and is not unlike the president in appearance. The shape of the faces, with the prominent teeth, the mustache and the expression of restless energy are not unlike.

Mr. Woodruff is one of five assistants to the attorney general, and is connected with the department of justice, though his assignment is to give advice to the department of the interior in matters where legal points are raised.

GOTHAM CITY CHAMBERLAIN

James J. Martin, the newly-appointed city chamberlain of New York, who is expected to join Mayor McClellan in his fight to oust Charles F. Murphy from the leadership of Tammany Hall, is one of the most powerful district leaders in the metropolis. He is pointed out as the "last of the old school of politicians," and he says he is proud of the distinction. The notion that the successful politician of the present day is the man who can shake hands, smile sweetly and promise without either fulfilling or offending is scorned by Mr. Martin.

"Politicians should stick more to the truth," says he. "I did it, and I know that it pays. Now and then it creates a little friction for a short time, but it disappears. You can never hold the man to whom you make promises that you do not keep. My policy always was to tell a man straight off whether I could do a thing or not. If I said I would, I did, and I got along all right."

Mr. Martin has been mentioned dozens of times for the leadership of Tammany Hall, has been the power in the Twenty-seventh district since 1882, has been chairman of the Tammany executive committee, president of the board of police commissioners, and during all his political career has been one of the "big" men in the organization. He was for years one of Richard Croker's counselors. When he resigned as an executive of the organization last September it was said by a political wag, "Martin has left, taking Tammany's brains with him."

Mr. Martin was born in Ireland and came to this country a babe in arms. At the age of 11 years he went to work as an office boy for a lawyer. In 1863, in company with several other boys, he ran away from home and enlisted in the Ninth New York volunteers. He served on the field for a year and then was made head of the clerical force with Gen. Dix. He continued in this office until the end of the war.

SENT MAGNATES TO JAIL

Lyman Wheeler Wachenheimer, the prosecuting attorney through whose efforts 23 Toledo lumbermen and brick men have been sentenced to jail for violation of the anti-trust laws, is 45 years old and a native of Toledo. He has always been a Democrat. Nine years ago he was nominated for police judge. His opponent was Scott Kelly, who had been nominated for third term. Kelly was very popular. Toledo was almost hopelessly Republican, nevertheless Mr. Wachenheimer was elected. Before his term was half completed he was the most popular official in the city. He was a terror to law breakers, and the result was a perceptible diminution of crime in Toledo. So well liked was Judge Wachenheimer that it was difficult to get a Republican to run against him, and he was chosen a second and third time by overwhelming majorities.

The Republican machine, which had controlled Toledo politics prior to the advent of Mayor Sam Jones, was in close touch with a wing of the Democratic party, and it was proposed by this combine to nominate Judge Wachenheimer for any office he chose to designate. But he rejected the offer and came out as the people's champion and was nominated for prosecuting attorney. The Democrats on the inside called him traitor, but their bitterness served only to nerve him to greater effort, and he won an overwhelming victory over the bosses.

Prosecuting Attorney Wachenheimer's first big accomplishment was to bring about the indictment of a score or more of bridge men engaged in "grafting" through an organized pool. But they were never brought to trial, owing to the fact that many counties had prior service on them.

He next began a crusade against the Ice Trust, which ended in the members of the trust paying fines and spending ten of last summer's hot days in the local jail.

JAPAN'S FOREMOST DIPLOMAT

Viscount Hayashi, minister of foreign affairs in the Japanese cabinet, who recently went to Seoul, the Korean capital, in the interests of his country, which is hopeful that the emperor will abdicate the throne as requested by the premier, is a man much feared by those who would have the present government continue. After the emperor had refused to relinquish his power Japan lost no time in sending Hayashi to the scene and the news of his arrival spread dismay about the palace.

The circumstances leading up to the selection of Hayashi for the important office he now holds are interesting. Marquis Salomji, the prime minister, in reorganizing his cabinet, gave the portfolio of foreign affairs to Takaaki Kato, formerly minister to England. After holding the office only a few days Mr. Kato suddenly resigned, it is said, for reasons never made public. Thereupon Ambassador Hayashi, then at the court of St. James, received an unexpected call to return to Japan and he was placed in the cabinet.

Viscount Hayashi is only 57 years of age, having been born in 1850 in Sakura, a little town near Tokio. His father was a prominent scholar and physician and the son was given a careful education in law and languages. His ability was early recognized and while yet very young he was sent to England to familiarize himself with Anglo-Saxon civilization. In 1891 he was appointed vice minister and began his diplomatic life. As soon as the war with China was over he was sent as minister to China and his success at this post was brilliant. His chief achievement was the commercial treaty between China and Japan which was negotiated and signed by him in 1896. It was he, too, who signed the final revision of the British alliance treaty. He was created viscount for bringing about this treaty.

Admirers of Hayashi say he is a scrupulous and single-minded man. He is sagacious in his methods, sound in judgment, refined in his taste and loyal to his duty. In sending Viscount Hayashi to Korea during the present difficulty the Japanese people are confident their interests will be ably protected.

SINGING AS A FINE ART.

Correct Breathing at the Bottom of All Success, Says Meiba.

I cannot too forcibly insist that the mere possession of a lovely voice is only the basis of vocal art, writes Mme. Meiba in the Century Magazine. Nature occasionally startles one by the prodigality of her gifts, but no student has any right to expect to sing by inspiration any more than an athlete may expect to win a race because he is naturally fleet of foot.

Methods of breathing, "attack," and the use of the registers must all be perfectly understood by the successful singer, who should likewise be complete master of all details relating to the structure and use of those parts above the voice box and be convinced of the necessity of a perfectly controlled chest expansion in the production of tone.

For perfect singing correct breathing, strange as it may sound, is even more essential than a beautiful voice. No matter how exquisite the vocal organ may be, its beauty cannot be adequately demonstrated without proper breath control. Here is one of the old Italian secrets which many singers of to-day wholly lack because they are unwilling to give the necessary time for the full development of breathing power and control. Phrasing, tone, resonance, expression, all depend upon respiration, and in my opinion must-

WAS WORTH TWO DOLLARS.

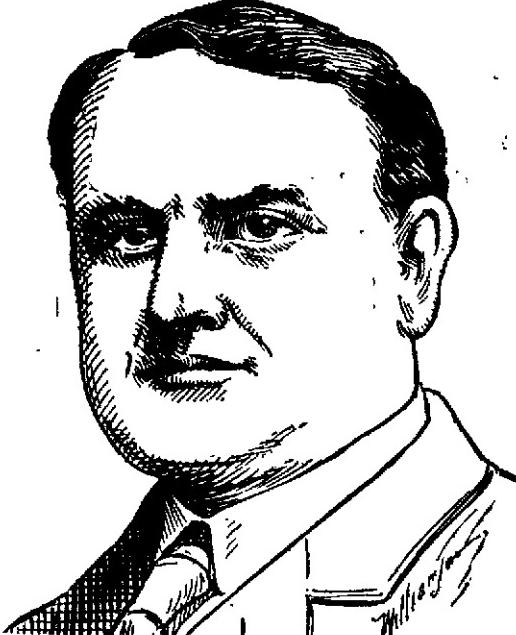

Traveler Reached Destination Long Before Uncivil Autos.

A story that is just coming to light is that of an interesting experience which happened to a member of the governor's party which visited Jamestown at the opening of the exposition, says the Baltimore American. One day this member became detached from the party and could not find them again. He hunted about for awhile, and finally decided that they had returned to Norfolk and that he had better travel the same road. It was impossible to get a vehicle, so he started out to walk. After he had gotten down the road a little way he was overtaken by an automobile, and he hailed the driver with the request to give him a lift. The latter, not having imbued sufficient of southern courtesy, refused. So the pedestrian trudged along.

The next person to overtake him was a southerner negro with a ramshackle "buggy." For a dollar he joyfully agreed to carry the unfortunate one to Norfolk. But a little way up the road stood the "red devil" which had so unchivalrously passed the pedestrian, and under it was its owner sprawled flat on his back and tinkering.

"I'll give you two dollars if you get to Norfolk before the automobile," said the gentleman.

cal students, even when too young to be allowed the free use of the voice, should be thoroughly taught the principles of breathing.

Polyglot Parliament.

The new parliament elected for the first time under universal suffrage held its preliminary sitting the other day for the members to be sworn in. Eight different languages were used by the deputies in taking the oath. The members wore buttonholes to denote the parties to which they belonged. Thus the Christian socialists had white carnations, and the Social Democrats red carnations and the Pan-Germans had cornflowers. The Social Democrats did not join in the cheers for the emperor, but showed their respect for his majesty by standing up when cheers were called. They will also send a deputation to the imperial palace to hear the speech from the throne on Wednesday.—Vienna Dispatch in London Express.

Unflattering Impressions.

Prof. Chamberlain, the great English authority upon all things Japanese, says: "From hints dropped by several educated, and from the still more interesting, because frankly naive, remarks made by Japanese servants whom I have taken with me to Europe at different times, I found that the traveled Japanese consider our three most prominent characteristics to be dirt, laziness and superstition."

"All right, sah, I'll do it if dis har mule can git that."

And to make the story short, the darky earned the $2—for all the gentleman knows the unknd automobile may be lying on his back in the Norfolk road yet—and the old story of the tortoise and the hare received a modern illustration.

Year's Change.

"I tell you, mun," remarked Sandy Pikes, as he dipped up the strawberries and cream, "when you are leading de hobo life you have to keep up with the times."

"Is that so, my poor man?" said the sympathetic housewife.

"Yes, indeed, mun. Why, dis time last year I used to say I came from San Francisco and people used to give me handouts 'cause dey thought I was an earthquake sufferer. Now, if I should forget myself and say I came from San Francisco dey would be liable to hand me over to de police for being an escaped grafter."

The Simple Truth.

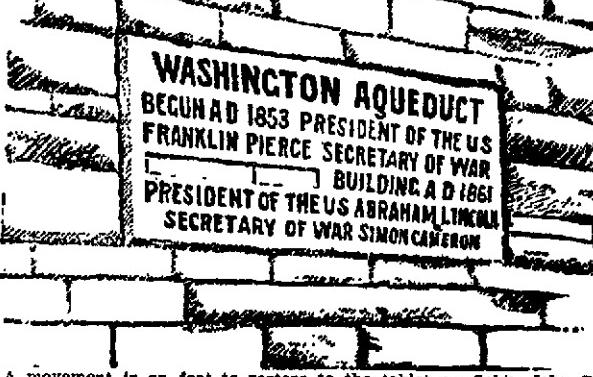

Tess—Miss Woolley tells me her grandfather was a real estate conveyancer.

Jess—Ha! ha!

Tess—Why do you laugh? Isn't it true?

Jess—Oh, yes, it's true. You see, the dump cart her grandfather drove was a conveyance for transporting real estate.

HISTORIC TABLET AT CABIN JOHN.

A movement is on foot to restore to the tablet on Cabin John Bridge near Washington the name of Jefferson Davis, which was cut out of the stone some time during the Civil War. Mr. Davis was Secretary of War at the time the construction of the great bridge was begun, and he was very much the talk of the time. The tablet bore the names of both Davis and Lincoln. But in the time of bitterness that succeeded the outbreak of war, some one cut the name of Lincoln out of the stone, leaving only a blank space.

GRAYBEARD WANTS TO KNOW

Why Women Refuse to Deny Rumors of Engagements.

"Why do women never deny an engagement of marriage?" asked the gray headed man. "In these days of world-wide social gossip every day brings the report of some impossible engagement which somebody has to deny, and always the first denial comes from the male half of the fictitious partnership. How account for this alacrity on the part of man to disclaim all intentions of a matrimonial venture? Does it indicate a spirit of gallantry which prompts him to relieve the lady, so far as possible, of all trouble and notoriety, or does it indicate a spirit of misanthropy that prompts him to hasten to proclaim himself impervious to female blandishments? Personally, I incline to the latter view. But even that does not explain the backwardness of women in denying these undesirable engagements."

"In many instances the man in the case is unworthy any woman's serious consideration; it is clearly to her credit to deny any shade of entanglement with him, yet no matter how flagrant his transgressions the woman moves placidly along allowing everybody to believe that she really intends to marry the wretch. Is she thus asquiescent through vanity, I

NURSES BY THE HOUR.

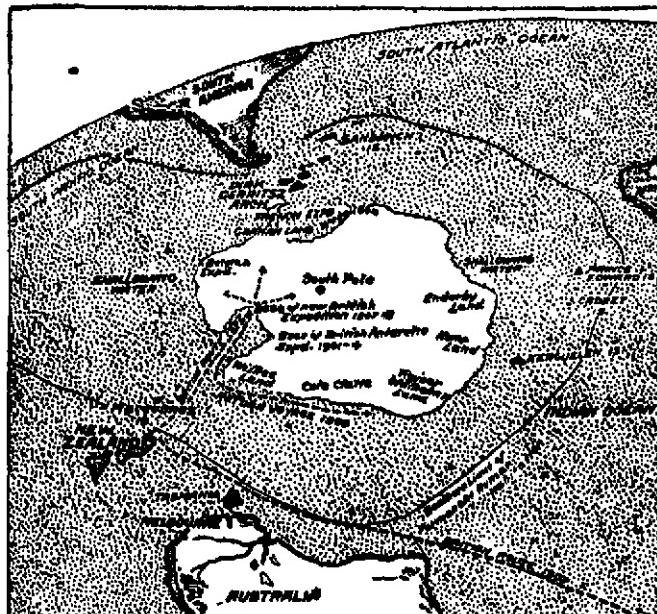

New Idea in New York That is Said to Work Well.

Some of the up-to-date trained nurses of New York have adopted a new idea. As a general thing, all trained nurses charge for their services by the week. They are supposed to remain in the home of their patient and be on duty practically every hour during their stay. This is exhausting work, and frequently a nurse is in a state of collapse after a week or two or constant attention to a nervous patient.

Well-to-do families can afford to pay for the nurse's services by the week, but in a poorer family a trained nurse is a luxury that makes a deep hole in the bread-winner's wages. In order to relieve themselves of the strain on their vitality and to put their services within the reach of limited pocketbooks, the modern young nurse now charges by the hour. In some cases a patient needs the attention of a nurse only an hour or two daily. For such attention one dollar an hour is charged. Where constant service is wanted the regular weekly charge is made.

wonder, and the desire to have the world think that she has been "asked," or through the philosophical reflection that time will show the gossips their mistake?"

For the Invalid.

A neat little booklet for an invalid can be made by saving witty clippings and pasting in a small scrap book. Often when one is not able to read lengthy articles something bright and witty will help brighten the day. It should only be loaned and passed along where it would probably be the most appreciated. Little pieces can be pasted on cards and are much more easily held by persons lying in bed. Bright pictures, comic and otherwise, are nice for children and afford amusement to the impatient little sufferers who must remain in bed.

Dissatisfaction.

"Any dissatisfaction on the canal?" wired the government.

"Yes," was the prompt answer; "one of the dredger crew struck a game Saturday night, and they rung in a cold deck on him."

within the antarctic circle. The new collection has been investigated, and Eagle Clarke reports that it adds to the list four species—the arctic tern, the blue petrel, the short-winged petrel, and Hutton's sooty albatross. While the petrels and their relatives are doubtless drawn so far south by the extraordinary abundance of the food near the ice barrier, it is thought to be most remarkable that the arctic tern, after breeding in the north, should make the long journey to the opposite pole.

As to Memorial Resolutions.
Memorial resolutions, all superlatively laudatory, fall equally upon the just and the unjust, and signify nothing. Some stereotyped forms of memorial resolutions, the names being changed to fit the occasion, are used hundreds of times and applied indiscriminately to persons as various in character as a judge and a prize-fighter, a soldier and a clergyman. They are like the undertaker's cape on the door, which serves a multitude of the dead.
